Extra Session Called Primarily to Consider Reciprocity Bill, But Number of Other Measures Are Considered and Passed Upon—Three Bills Signed and Four Voted by President Taft—Members now Leaving Capitol

(National News Association)
Washington, D.C., Aug. 23.—Although the extraordinary session of the 62nd congress, just adjourned, was called primarily by the president to consider and enact legislation to carry into effect the Canadian reciprocity agreement, which the previous session had failed to do, many matters beside this subject have been considered and passed upon by the president, approved and others he vetoed.

In keeping with the pledge which the democratic leaders of the house made to the president before the session began, the house promptly took up the reciprocity question, and passed it by an overwhelming majority, although the presidential opposition to it was strong. In the senate the measure was great to add various democratic tariffs to reciprocity affecting the general tariff law, but the leaders insisted upon keeping faith with the president and upon giving him the second sort of legislative aid which is to the Canadian agreement which he recommended in his message. So far as the United States is concerned all has been done that can be done to establish free trade relations with the Dominion under the pending agreement.

Every act of legislation considered by the present congress was initiated in the democratic house. Pending the consideration of the reciprocity bill, the first action of the house after its organization, was the passage of the resolution which would enable the president to make the necessary arrangements for the admission of the people to elect United States senators by direct vote. For only the second time in its history the senate consented to consider such a proposition. The house resolution was finally passed but not until the president amended it in such a way as to give the federal government the power to remove senators at will, the resolution remains unacted upon in conference, and must await further consideration at the coming regular session.

BILLS PASSED BY CONGRESS AND SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

- Canadian Reciprocity Bill.
- Bill Relating to the Publicity of Campaigns Before Election.
- Bill to Reapportion Representatives in the House.
- Bills Voted by the President.
- Bill Revising the Wooten schedule of the Tariff Law.
- Bill Revising the Giffen Schedule.
- Bill Placing more than One Additional Article of Commerce in the Power of the President.
- Prime Necessity on the Free List.
- Constitutional Convention.
- New Mexico to Enlarge them to become States in the Union.

After having disposed of reciprocity, as it was expected, it would be the democratic house took up the subject of tariff revision schedule by schedule. The first effort in this direction was to revise the tariff downward the passage of the Farmers' Free List bill, in which the customs duties upon more than one hundred articles embraced in the necessities of life, were reduced. The senate took the measure, and after modifying it to some extent, particularly with reference to meat and cereal food products, placing them upon the free list only when coming from such countries as those with which the United States has a reciprocal trade arrangement affecting other articles, and in this form passed it. The bill was vetoed by the President, however, because of his avowed determination not to approve any tariff legislation that is not based on a report of the tariff board which that board has made no report.

The next step of the democratic house was a revision of the wooten schedule, which reduced to 20 per cent the duty on raw wool and made corresponding reductions in the duties of woolsens, on the average reducing the rates substantially one-half. In order to get the senate with it the democratic majority, to agree to a revision of this schedule, it was necessary to adopt a compromise measure wherein the duties on raw wool were placed at 20 per cent, with the rates on manufactured wools adjusted accordingly. This also was vetoed by the President because the tariff board had not reported on it.

Tariff Revision

After having disposed of reciprocity, as it was expected, it would be the democratic house took up the subject of tariff revision schedule by schedule. The first effort in this direction was to revise the tariff downward the passage of the Farmers' Free List bill, in which the customs duties upon more than one hundred articles embraced in the necessities of life, were reduced. The senate took the measure, and after modifying it to some extent, particularly with reference to meat and cereal food products, placing them upon the free list only when coming from such countries as those with which the United States has a reciprocal trade arrangement affecting other articles, and in this form passed it. This also was vetoed by the President because the tariff board had not reported on it.

Reciprocity Resolution

The stateship resolution, approving the constitutions of the territories of Arizona and New Mexico to enable them to become states in the union, was the cause of much controversy, and finally resulted in Presidential disapproval by reason of the provision in the Arizona instrument affecting the recall of judges. The flood resolution, introduced by Representative Flood of Virginia, chairman of the house committee on territories, providing for the approval of the constitution of both territories, with the implication that in the case of Arizona the constitution would be given an opportunity to vote again upon the recall of judges' tenure—to vote it in or vote it out—and that the people of New Mexico would be afforded a like opportunity to vote upon the question of making their constitution more easily amendable, but even this treatment of the recall section was objectionable to the President and prompted him to veto the resolution.

The one remaining important measure passed at the session, which was fortunate enough to receive the President's approval, was the bill providing for congressional reapportionment. This measure increases the number of members in the house or representatives from 391 at the present to 433, the number of Arizona seats in the house. Under its provision no state loses in representation, although several gains result from the wooten schedule. Mr. Will make a gain of six members in the house and Pennsylvania will gain one. The largest loss in the reapportionment provided in the bill will remain in effect until after the next congressional session.

The democratic of the house placed themselves as a party to the enactment of the "half-a-day" pension bill for veterans of the Civil War, a measure which has been much advocated by the democratic majority. The bill, however, as it could not become operative until after the next year, on July 1, 1912, no attempt was made to pass this bill at the extraordinary session.

GENERALS ARE ADVISED TO ATTEND TO OWN AFFAIRS

German Officers Who Are Now Trying to Bolster Up Trouble Over the Moroccan Affair Are Politely Told to Mind Their Own Business

(International News Service)
Berlin, Aug. 23.—Despite the fact that it is generally conceded that the Moroccan controversy is now on the road to a peaceful settlement, hothouse within the German frontier persist in coming to the front with solemn warnings and highly colored personal opinions that are radical and inflammatory in the extreme.

The latest of these international incendiaries is General Liebert, ex-governor of Germany, who in a lengthy interview, frankly tells the French that unless they are willing to develop their empire, the Kaiser's neighbor they will, before many years are gone, be "swamped away by the Teutonic deluge."

This "deluge" continues the general is no longer capable of being put within its national home. Germany must have an outlet for its growing population. This, he says, points inevitably to the annexation, peace or force, of territories in the temperate zone.

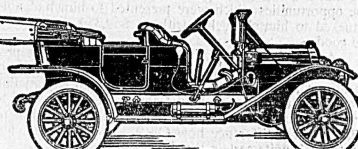

That General Liebert might not be alone in his publicity, his statement was followed by one from General Keim, once the unrepentant advocate of the Navy League. General Keim takes another angle of the controversy and prophesies dire disaster to the German Empire through its apathy toward the creed of naval extremists. He says that a reformation must overtake the Kaiser's naval policy before Germany can feel secure from a repetition of the present war scare.

The only effect that these words of wisdom have had upon the Kaiser is a statement from an official in the foreign office which declares a mollified dictation a denial of both contentions and a neatly veiled hit that both Generals had best attend to their knitting and let the government run its own affairs. As for the citizens they are too happy in the belief that the Kaiser has put one over on their rivals, France and England, to heed the croakings of these venerable birds of evil omen.

Coming Generations May Grow Beefsteak

English Scientists Discover Way of Producing Meats Which Can Be Used from Time to Time Without Retarding Its Growth—Supply Inexhaustible

(International News Service)
London, Aug. 23.—Science has found a way to produce beefsteak and dispense with the butcher's bill, according to a British experiment of science, he good advice from housewives of the future.

It was possible to proceed at will, as was possible if the prediction of Dr. Warren Lewis, associate professor of zoology at Johns Hopkins University, of Baltimore, are correct.

For months past Dr. Lewis and his wife, who has studied under Dr. Martin Hartman in Berlin, have made experiments with embryonic chickens, and recently announced that after a long series of experiments they have found a way of inducing the indefinite growth of cellular substance by chemical process.

In popular language, what Dr. Lewis and his wife have accomplished is this: They have taken an embryonic chicken, placed it in a saline solution and grown chicken meat.

It is possible to cut off some of this chicken meat without hindering future growth, and this process can be repeated indefinitely with any kind of flesh.

Beefsteak therefore, may be grown in similar fashion, and indeed, there seems no limit to the possibilities of the new discovery.

Just as it is now possible for the embryo to go into the housewife's salad garden and sup for the rest of its life or parsley for the soup, repeat, it will be possible for the embryo of the future to go into her pantry, under a jar, and produce a piece of spring chicken from another jar to get a slice of spruce lamb, and so on.

Dr. Lewis himself foresees a vast commercial future for his discoveries.

"There is nothing," he said, "to prevent one operations from being carried on on a much larger scale."

"Suppose you had a number of vats filled with saline solutions and that in these solutions you put the muscles or other organs of various animals not only while in the embryo but even when they had reached the adult stage. There would be large growths, and these would be edible."

"In other words, the salt solutions could be taken into incubators sure to hatch and from which piece of embryo chickens and so on could be taken every day without hindering the increase of the supply."

LIVERPOOL FISHERMEN MAKE STRANGE CATCH
Bring Up Casket Dated June, 1891, Containing the Remains of Human Bones.

(International News Service)
London, Aug. 23.—A remarkable recovery from the sea has been made by fishermen at Liverpool. Captain Evans and the crew of the Jack Ruby east of Mersey about twenty miles north-west of the lights, and after trawling for five miles across the track of Liverpool and the Isle of Man, the steamers hauled to the surface.

The catch included an earthenware casket, securely fastened and bound with copper wire, to which a slab lead was attached. On the lid the following words were written in lead pencil: "John Henry Wood, created 8th June, 1911." When the casket was opened, "W. W. Manchester" was discovered imprinted on a piece of lead used as a

CLAREMONT HOUSE IS MANSION WITH HISTORY

(Globe Cable Service)
London, Aug. 23.—Claremont House, to be the abode of the Prince of Wales on attainment of his majority, is a mansion with a history. Built by Sir John Vanbrugh for the Earl of Clare, it was pulled down by Robert Clive and re-erected by "Capability" Brown. It was here, in 1817, that Prince Charlotte died in childbirth. Here, too, Louis Philippe found a refuge, after his exile from France, and here both he and his Queen died. The present occupant of the house is the Duchess of Albany, who, however, actually prefers Windsor. Horace Walpole, in a letter to his friend George Montagu, dated August 14, 1718, said that he would like pine apples were conveyed from Claremont House to Hanover by courier.

NOTED JOURNALISTS ARE VISITING CITY

W. E. CURTIS, CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD, and "CY" WARMAN, LEAVE FOR END OF STEEL.

Two prominent American newspaper and magazine writers arrived in Edmonton yesterday and went west this morning over the Grand Trunk Pacific to the head of steel. They are William E. Curtis of the Chicago Record-Herald, and "Cy" Warman, whose articles on Western development have appeared in many of the leading periodicals of the United States. Mr. Curtis is probably the only newspaper man in the world who is working under a life contract with the paper he represents. The object of his trip to Western Canada is to gather material for a series of articles on railway development in the Canadian west.

Mr. Curtis' hobby is reciprocity. "What surprises me," he remarked last evening, "is the mistaken impression that the people up here, or at least some of them, have about the disposition of the United States in regard to reciprocity. I read the papers and the speeches and it does not seem to me that the people who write and the men who make the speeches can have read that treaty.

"In the first place," continued Mr. Curtis, "it gives Canadian agricultural products a free market to the United States, where we are beginning to feel that sort of thing, because we produce enough for our own customers, and the prices of all garden products are two or three times as high in Canada. It is only reasonable to believe that the moment the duties are taken off, the price of these articles will go up in Canada."

Mr. Curtis was engaged with the department of state in Washington 36 years ago, and came to Canada as a representative to get the government to negotiate a similar treaty, which he and the Conservatives of that day are anxious to secure the treaty as they are now to prevent it.

"HURRY UP" WAGON IS STANDING STILL CHIEFLY BECAUSE EQUINES PURCHASE FOR PURPOSES OF PURCHASE TO HAUL VEHICLE.

The "hurry up" wagon at the police station is at present a horseless carriage. The span of black beauties purchased for the police patrol wagon was returned because one of them proved balky and since that time the department has been searching for another team of horses suitable for the purpose and one that will not miss upon any occasion of emergency.

It is understood that a suitable span is spotted and may be purchased about the middle of the month. Market Superintendent Robertson is at this time visiting Lacombe in connection with the horse sale. He is after the draft variety although he would pick up a team for the police wagon if just what is wanted presented itself.

Agent horses Superintendent Hoffman of the power house department is wanting three animals of his bone and muscle and two cool cars. The horses can be used steadily at the power plant while the third is to be used as reserve and sufficient to shift work needed in the city and to give the regulars an occasional day off. It figured out that the team municipality owned three would pay for themselves in about three months.

Although it has been decided that the modern, sanitary, convenient, automatic horse barn is not to be erected this fall, nevertheless the search for desirable animals for the city has not stopped. This is evidenced by the fact that the market superintendent, who is the city's horse expert, is now at Lacombe on a horse buying junk. What animals can be secured for the city will be brought together at the end of the week and as spring begins to advance the prices begin to rise as is usually the case each spring. Next year the city will have its own team doing practically every bit of teaming work.

INSURANCE INSPECTORS PAY EDMONTON VISIT
Fire insurance inspectors from Winnipeg were at the capital yesterday testing fire hydrants, inspecting the power plant and looking into the water situation generally. Such an investigation is made annually and more often if the city's horse expert, who is the city's horse expert, is now at Lacombe on a horse buying junk. What animals can be secured for the city will be brought together at the end of the week and as spring begins to advance the prices begin to rise as is usually the case each spring. Next year the city will have its own team doing practically every bit of teaming work.

An instance of where grain grown in the Edmonton district has increased not only 100 fold but several hundred fold is a number of stalks of grain on exhibition in the board of trade rooms. It was a small seedling, but it was the grain of Mr. Benson not far out in the country to the north. The plant is a grain of wheat, and it has 32 stalks, the heads on each of which contain an average 152 grains making the total number of grains a splendid sample of grain. The straw has grown to a good length.

GRAIN INCREASES OVER A THOUSAND FOLD
One Grain of Wheat Produces Plant Having 22 Stalks, Heads Having Thousands of Grains.

On Tuesday evening next a by-law will be submitted to the city council for the closing of a portion of Davis street (King east of McEwigan), a lane west of lot 27 and a lane between lots 8 and 9, all to be closed for the purpose of putting in shape the Grand Trunk hotel site. Yesterday Grand Trunk Pacific officials requested the city commissioners to have the high ways closed so that work on the hotel might be commenced. The necessary publication of notice has been made and there are no protests to the request, so that the site will be unencumbered by any streets or alleys next Tuesday evening.

SUPPOSED TO BE MUTE REGAINS HIS VOICE
But Loses It Again When Given Three Months in Jail by Magistrate.

"On mother, he can talk, exclaimed a comely miss with much surprise at the station this morning as a "deaf and dumb" ass seeker found tongue when caught in the act of tampering with the conductor and protested indignantly. The "mute" had been presenting his "arms card" to people seeking the train and when the conductor strode up and accosted him, the beggar plainly said, "I have not grown doing anything" much to the astonishment of those boarding the train and the young lady. At the police court this morning he was asked to speak, but when the magistrate handed him a sentence of three months in jail, he said that there were no more words in his vocabulary.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE
But Loses It Again When Given Three Months in Jail by the Magistrate.

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending today total $2,113,081, which compared with the corresponding week of last year when they totaled $2,373,258, shows a remarkable increase. The fact that there were over 250 days in the corresponding week of last year accounts for a certain offset for the week ending today. Bank clearings for the week just closed show a decided increase over previous weeks, when they were $2,000,132.

FRACTURED HIS ARM.
As he drew his arm back to throw the ball, P. Hilliard, pitcher for the Y.M.C.A. fourth team, in an inter-district game last evening, caught his leg with his brother's knee, fracturing the arm, and was taken from the field in great pain. The incident was considered at first, thought that the injury was in the nature of a strain, but it was found that the bone was broken. A fracture to the bone in length, extending from the elbow almost to the shoulder.

One Grain of Wheat Produces Plant Having 22 Stalks, Heads Having Thousands of Grains.

An instance of where grain grown in the Edmonton district has increased not only 100 fold but several hundred fold is a number of stalks of grain on exhibition in the board of trade rooms. It was a small seedling, but it was the grain of Mr. Benson not far out in the country to the north. The plant is a grain of wheat, and it has 32 stalks, the heads on each of which contain an average 152 grains making the total number of grains a splendid sample of grain. The straw has grown to a good length.

Warning of Advance in Prices

Our Lots Are Too Cheap.

Every time we drive a load of customers to

G.T.P. Addition

It is as evident to them as it is to us that our prices are a way below their real value.

Compare its location near what will soon be the largest pay roll centre of the city, the fine, high, dry site—the large lots and the exceptionally easy terms, with surrounding values, and the fact will be as evident to you.

But we are going to partially remedy this, as the price of every lot unsold Sept. 1 will be raised $25. But, even then, at the advanced price, you will be getting in nearer the ground floor than on many other similar propositions.

Prices now
$90 to $200
Terms, $10 cash and balance $5 per month.
